

Macias, Wendy

---

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Monday, June 15, 2009 9:52 AM
To: negreg09
Subject: student loan default

I did not graduate from high school then had my oldest son at 19 yrs old. In order to get and maintain state assisted medical and food assistance. I was told I needed to enroll in school. I chose a local technical training school to be able to pursue a career in Business computers. I began school in February 1988 thru September 88. I was told the entire time while attending school that the education i received while going to this school would transfer to the local junior college. I obtained a student loan to be able to pay for this, little did I know that not only did the credits not transfer, but the education did not matter because I had not received a high school diploma or a GED. I had been told that the school would cost me $2600.00 or so to attend. Little did I know that the school actually would cost me over $24,000.00. I have applied for forgiveness based on these facts. And thought I had obtained one. But then last year some 20 years later I was told I had not and I was totally responsible for paying this. I have had my pay garnished. I can not get an mortgage, a car, I do not get my tax returns. Now my son who has been accepted to play football and go to Southeastern Oklahoma State. Can not obtain a student loans based on my history. i

[REDACTED]