Abstract

This section asks about Coordination of Strategies. School services provided to address the needs of students at risk of educational failure may be coordinated with one or more other strategies, or they may be isolated. Coordinated services are designed to work together in an integrated system to match students to appropriate resources. Isolated services operate independently, with little communication with other programs or services.

113. In the 2014-15 school year, how would you describe the coordination of each of these strategies with other services and strategies in your high school? (Please select one option for each row)
